STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867 (the Act) was enacted for the regulation of printing presses and newspapers, for preservation of copies of books and newspapers printed in India, and for the registration of such books and newspapers. The Act was a legacy of the British Raj and was enacted with the intent to exercise complete control over the press, printers and publishers of books and newspapers by imposing heavy fines and penalties, including imprisonment for various violations.

2. Though the Act was amended many times between 1870 and 1983, it remained procedurally cumbersome and complex making it extremely burdensome and time consuming, especially for small and medium publishers, in matters of verification of title and obtaining of certificate of registration for publishing a periodical. The process of furnishing a declaration before the local authority, its authentication by that authority and subsequent furnishing of application to the Press Registrar General, first for title verification and thereafter for obtaining certificate of registration, which was in vogue under the Act of 1867, is both time consuming and onerous. Further, the punitive fines and penalties which included imprisonment, even for small contraventions, was anachronistic to the constitutional values. In the present age of free press and the commitment of the Government to uphold media freedom, this pre-independence archaic law is not in sync with the current media landscape. Hence, it was considered necessary to repeal and reenact the Act to be more contemporaneous, to provide for—

(i) ease of doing business;

(ii) removing unnecessary procedural obstacles for publishers; and

(iii) unburdening the owners of printing presses and publishers from the onerous task of furnishing declaration before the District Magistrate and filing of revised declaration every time there were any changes in its particulars.

3. The proposed legislation is based on the spirit of upholding media freedom and ease of doing business by making the entire process of allotment of title and registration of periodicals simple and simultaneous, through an online system without the requirement of any physical interface, which would be fast tracked by the Press Registrar General, thereby ensuring that publishers, especially small and medium publishers, face little difficulty in starting a periodical. Importantly, the publishers would no longer be required to file a declaration with the District Magistrate, or the local authorities, or get such declaration authenticated by such authorities. Furthermore, printing presses would also not be required to furnish any such declaration; instead an intimation by the printer would be sufficient. It is also proposed to substantially decriminalise the colonial era statute by providing financial penalties for certain violations, and a credible appellate mechanism, headed by the Chairman, Press Council of India is also proposed.

4. Accordingly, it is proposed to introduce the Press and Registration of Periodicals Bill, 2023 in Parliament, which, inter alia, provides for—

(a) simple online process of title verification and registration of periodicals by the Press Registrar General;

(b) furnishing of intimation in online portal by the printer to the Press Registrar General and specified authority;

(c) specific provision relating to circulation and verification of newspapers;

(d) prior approval of the Central Government for publication of facsimile edition of foreign periodicals in India;

(e) suspension or cancellation of the certificate of registration of periodicals by the Press Registrar General under specified circumstances;

(f) substantive decriminalisation of the provisions relating to violation of various provisions and imposition of financial penalties by the Press Registrar General.

5. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objectives.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Sub-clause (1) of clause 19 empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the provisions of the proposed legislation. Sub-clause (2) of the said clause specifies the matters in respect of which such rules may be made. These matters, inter alia, include (a) the manner and particulars for furnishing an intimation before the specified authority by the printing press under clause 3; (b) the manner of registration of a facsimile edition of a foreign periodical under sub-clause (3) of clause 4; (c) the manner of verification of circulation figure of class of periodicals under clause (b) of clause 6; (d) the form, fees and manner of making an online application, documents to be furnished and particulars to be set forth under sub-clause (2) of clause 7; (e) the form in which and the particulars along with which a certificate of registration shall be issued under sub-clause (5) of clause 7; (f) the manner of making application and the particulars to be set forth therein under sub-clause (1) of clause 8; (g) the form, fees and manner of making an application, documents to be furnished and particulars to be set forth, under sub-clause (2) of clause 9; (h) the circumstances and manner for authorising the specified authority to suspend or cancel the certificate of registration under sub-clause (7) of clause 11; (i) the form, time, manner and particulars for furnishing an annual statement under clause 12; and (j) any other matter which is required to be, or may be, prescribed under the provisions of the proposed legislation.

2. Every rule made or notification issued by the Central Government shall be laid as soon as may be after it is made, before each House of Parliament while it is in session, for a total period of thirty days which may be comprised in one session or in two or more successive sessions.

3. Sub-clause (3) of clause 19 empowers the State Government to make, by notification in the Official Gazette, rules not inconsistent with the rules made by the Central Government. The rules made by the State Government shall be laid, as soon as may be after it is made, before the respective State Legislature.

4. The matters in respect of which rules may be made are matters of procedure and administrative details and it is not practicable to provide for them in the Bill itself. The delegation of legislative powers is, therefore, of normal character.
